

MEET AARON

“YOU SAVED MY LIFE.”

MEET AARON

As a young, newly married father from Texas, Aaron always considered himself to be in good health. When Aaron's company, Randolph-Brooks Federal Credit Union (RBFCU), started offering health screenings through HealthCheck360°, he jumped at the opportunity. Aaron's health score indicated that he was in good health, but he noticed that his alkaline phosphatase levels were out of range.

WHAT HE LEARNED

Aaron's HealthCheck360° report defined alkaline phosphatase and explained that higher levels could be a sign of cancer. Aaron said, “This made me extremely uneasy.” In recent months, Aaron had been experiencing slight and irregular pain in his left testicle, but didn't give it much thought. After his HealthCheck360° screening, that changed.

WHAT HE DID

Aaron took all of the right steps and immediately scheduled an appointment with his doctor. He explains, “I'll never forget that day, because on the 30th of May, 2017, my doctor informed me that he believed I had testicular cancer.” Soon after this appointment, Aaron had surgery to remove the cancer.

THE FUTURE

Follow-up testing showed that Aaron's cancer was caught early and it had not spread. Aaron is now cancer free! He is extremely grateful to RBFCU, “I got married in August and have a one year old son whose father was fortunate enough to work for a company that cares enough about their employees to partner up with a company as impactful and compassionate as HealthCheck360°.” Bad news is never easy to hear, but Aaron was able to detect his cancer early enough to prevent it from spreading. Today, he's enjoying a vibrant life with his wife and son.
